

Typical British Food (Vocabulary Exercise)

British Food

by Prof.NativoGratis

From 'Aethelflaed & the Rock Star' (Amazon) profesornativogratias.com/Jonathan Olliffe

Tray - Baked - Wrapped - Batter - Softened - Soaked - Oven - Topped - Sliced - Yeast - Layers - Ubiquitous - Floury - Yolk - Minced - Chunks

- One of the most foods in Britain. It is eaten for breakfast, lunch and dinner; cooked in the and served with tomato sauce.
- The famous English 'cream tea' is served with these small cakes, which are open and filled with jam and cream – delicious!
- Layers of cream, fruit, sponge cake in sherry, custard (a sweet sauce made of egg, sugar and cream) and jelly - perfect for summer.
- This was miners' food: a full meal of potato, beef and onion in pastry.
- Similar to (d), but served with potatoes or chips: of beef and kidney, mushrooms and gravy in the oven. It has a strong taste.
- Traditionally part of a Sunday roast, this is basically a made of beaten eggs, flour, milk and meat juices in a baking and left to rise in the oven.
- Potatoes boiled and then with butter and cream, served with sausages.
- beef and vegetables are cooked together, then with mashed potato and grated cheese. 'Shepherd's Pie' is a variant with lamb.
- A soft and spongy alternative to toast, made of flour and, served with butter and cheese. A mouthwatering snack!